

Circle the City Boston

Taking It To The Streets

Circle The City Boston is a community-building Open Streets initiative that temporarily transforms our streets into places for people, promoting active lifestyles, family fun, local arts and culture, and health and wellness. On July 14th and September 29th, 2013, Circle The City featured 1.5 miles of car-free corridors on Huntington and Blue Hill Avenues that reclaimed public space and celebrated the opportunity for the community to gather for health, fitness, dance, music and fun for the whole family. Open Streets not only offers the chance to reclaim our streets for active, non-motorized uses, the events contribute to the growing vibrancy and economic improvement of Boston neighborhoods.

Jessica Parsons

Emerald Necklace Conservancy (Circle The City Boston)

jessica@emeraldnecklace.org